Harvard Game Plans Complete

Dance Added Attraction to Students and Alumni

More Than Thousand Tickets Sold to Supporters of Blue and White—
Band Will Accompany Team

Final plans for the events in connection with the New Hampshire Harvard football game which is to be held in Cambridge this week-end, are nearly complete. The ticket sale has been especially gratifying. More than one thousand of the pasteboards have already been sold and applications have come in in great numbers during the last week, according to Alumni Secretary Charles Pattee. Those who have failed to obtain tickets will have to get them at the Stadium Saturday.

Tickets for the dance will be obtainable here until Friday P. M., after which those desirous of getting them will have to wait until just previous to the affair at the Hotel Statler Saturday evening. A slight change has been made in the plans for the dance. According to the committee the Shepard Colonial Orchestra under the direction of Perley Breed will furnish music rather than a University orchestra as stated in last week's issue of THE NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The University Band, under the leadership of Lewis C. Swain, which is to make its first public appearance out of town for the season in its blue and white uniforms, is hard at work in preparation for the event. Harvard selections for use in the formations are being rehearsed in order that a real demonstration may be given.

Those who plan to attend theatres or other places of amusement after the game rather than dance will find difficulty in obtaining seats for such affairs since Saturday is a holiday in Boston and reserve seats for the more popular theatres will have been engaged several weeks in advance and long waiting lines will congest other places of entertainment.

Attendants at the game last Saturday will realize the necessity of louder and more organized cheering on the part of New Hampshire rooters at the game, since the Harvard Stadium is considerably larger than our grandstand and it will be difficult for the cheers to be heard unless they are stronger than at present.

JOHN WALSH NAMED DEPARTMENT HEAD

New Acting Head Fills Vacancy Left
by Death of Professor H. F.
Allen

Associate Professor John S. Walsh has been appointed Acting Head of the Department of Languages to fill the vacancy left by the death of Professor Hamilton Ford Allen, according to an announcement made recently by President Edward M. Lewis.

Professor Walsh graduated from Harvard University in 1915 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts and received an M.A. degree from Boston University in 1928. After graduating from Harvard he taught in private and public schools of Massachusetts and New Jersey. During the World War he was commissioned as First Lieutenant in the 301st Field Artillery and saw active service overseas.

Professor Walsh came to the University of New Hampshire in 1922 as an instructor in Languages, became Assistant Professor in 1926 and assumed his present rank this year.

He is a member of the American Philological Association and New England Modern Language Association.

Osgood Cup Won by Lambda Chi

Awarded to Fraternity for High Scholarship

Delta Sigma Chi Ineligible to Com-pete

The Osgood scholarship cup was presented to the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity at the convocation Wednesday, October 2. The cup, which was given to the University by Wilford A. Osgood, '14, is presented to that fraternity that during the school year receives the highest scholastic standing. It will be given to the fraternity winning it three times in succession for a permanent trophy. Fraternities eligible to compete for this cup must have been members of Casque and Casket for at least two years and must have been active on the campus during that time. Although Delta Sigma Chi had the highest scholastic standing for the year '28-'29, it was ineligible because of the fact that it had not been a member of Casque and Casket for two years.

Lambda Chi Alpha won it for the first time in '25-'26; Theta Chi took it the next year; and in '27-'28 Lambda Chi Alpha retook it. This makes the third time Lambda Chi Alpha has received it.

Two Contracts Already Awarded for Publication

Student Artists to Illustrate Book
Instead of Professional Designers
as Before—Other New Features Planned by New Staff

Work on the Granite, the year book published by the junior class, is rapidly progressing according to Editor-in-chief Enzo D. Serafini, '31. Two of the most important contracts have been already let—that of photography to the Warren-Kay studio of Boston, and that of engraving to the Manchester Union photo-engraving company. Both companies plan to start work immediately so that everything will be in readiness on scheduled time.

Several new ideas are to be worked out this year. Chief among these is the replacement of the professionally designed art work with that of the University students. In order to secure a good assortment to choose from a cash prize of twenty-five dollars and other prizes are being offered for the best work along this line. A board of three faculty members has been selected to judge the contest.

Two vacancies on the Granite Board, caused by the resignations of Faculty Editor Yvonne Beaudry and Business Manager Donald Brown have been filled. Avis Henning, '31, member of Mask and Dagger, honorary dramatic society, and of Phi Mu Sorority, has been chosen as faculty editor and Clifford H. Bagley, '31, has taken up the position of business manager. Bagley was a member of the freshman football squad of the class of 1931. He plays with the Red Rambler orchestra and is assistant treasurer of Theta Chi.

Heelers were called out last week and about thirty responded to the call. Appointments are being made as the occasion arises for editors for various new features and they will take up the work of their departments within a short time. The Board hopes to present to the Student Body the best number of the year book that has appeared for some time.

Everybody out!

By K. E. H. K., '31

In anticipation of next Saturday's thrills, the Wildcats of the University of New Hampshire are burning with a football fever that may grip with bloody claws into the Harvard eleven and bring glory to the Blue and White on the gridiron. Tickets for this classic are getting scarce as hen's teeth. Though the precious pasteboards will not be in the hands of scalpers, they will be worth their weight in gold to the Wildcat followers.

Though several sophomores have made front line positions and may show weaknesses from lack of varsity experience, their work to date exhibits potential strength and a rosy future is predicted with plenty of promising replacements to fill any gaps.

The University of New Hampshire is on its way back to the high position it formerly held in the college gridiron world when it threatened the Brown "Iron Men" four years ago. Under the capable direction of Head Coach Cowell and his assistants, Christensen and Miller, the Blue and White banner is destined to ripple once more in the breeze of brilliant victories. Last season's poor showing has been forgotten and a spirit of confidence and alertness pervades the Wildcat gridiron outfit.

New Hampshire has won the first two games, piling up a total of 44 points against Colby and Boston University while none of those teams were able to threaten our tally column in either of those contests. While Harvard only beat Bates 48 to 0, Coach Cowell hinted that he did not believe the Crimson would make more than three touchdowns.

Contrary to the opinion of many the University of New Hampshire Outing Club is not simply an organization for sponsoring a winter carnival. It is a year round organization sponsoring and directing good, wholesome recreation for the students of the University, with special emphasis on out-of-door activities. Membership is open to all students, ex-students, alumni, and members of the University staff. With the support of the student body the club will be enabled to erect next spring the first of a proposed chain of cabins. These cabins will be open to members only for their comfort and enjoyment.

To stimulate interest in its membership drive the Outing Club is offering the following prizes:

A New Hampshire banner to each of the following groups:

The men's fraternity having the highest percentage of paid members by November 1, 1929.

ON TO BOSTON

For the first time in the history of the University of New Hampshire the Wildcat football team will invade the Harvard Stadium to meet the Crimson eleven on the gridiron. Nothing has been spared by the New Hampshire officials to make the week-end of this game the biggest in New Hampshire's football history. An attractive program of events beginning Friday night and ending with the dance at the Hotel Statler Saturday evening presents possibilities for as full a two days' program as one would care to attend.

The Wildcats' invasion of the Stadium has a more important significance however than that of a mere football game. It marks a step in the history of New Hampshire. The Harvard stadium is more than a structure or a playing field, it is a goal. The stadium, although surpassed in size by many others is peculiar in itself, in that it is the goal of every football team in eastern United States. When a college or university sends its team to the Harvard Stadium it has reached a point in its football history that is an important one, and on Saturday New Hampshire reaches that point.

It is doubtful if a better year could have been picked for the first Harvard-New Hampshire game. The Wildcat eleven looks the best that it has in many years. The sports writers who have claimed the game as a "practice session" for Harvard are already beginning to worry. The decisive victory over Colby and the even more impressive win over Boston University via the aerial route is just cause for alarm in the Crimson football camp. New Hampshire may not win, such an accomplishment seems in the realm of impossibility, but in any event it will be more than a practice session for Arnold Horween's team, and when the final whistle blows they will know they have been playing a real game.

There is no need of urging New Hampshire students to attend the game. The sale of tickets in the Alumni Office shows that nearly everyone who can possibly be there will be in the Stadium Saturday. A word to those, however, who are still wondering what to do Saturday evening. Attend the dance at the Statler. The alumni in charge have arranged a delightful party for those attending. Excellent music and a series of surprises will be on the program at the dance. Those who are planning to attend shows in Boston Saturday evening, even motion picture shows, will in all probability be sadly disappointed, for it is a holiday in Massachusetts and shows with reserved seats have been sold out many days and no one wants to stand in line in the lobby of a movie theatre for two hours.

As a parting suggestion to those attending the game. The stadium is some larger than the grandstand at Memorial Field, and a great deal more voice power is needed for cheering. The football team is working to play its best game, the band is working to beat the Harvard musicians, committees for the dance and smoker have made untiring efforts to make the affair a big success. Let's back them all up to the utmost and make Boston remember New Hampshire's first football visit.

last week. Besides discovering the fact that they had a football team, he found that the Cambridge authorities are importing six carloads of hay to scatter over their main thoroughfares this Saturday. The more to make us feel at home my dear!

"Ah sweet mystery of life" is still being served the frosh at the commons. What? You don't understand? Hash, Oswald, hash!

The insidious thing about talking pictures is that even your best friend talks so loud you can't hear anything. Remedy: Buy him or her a bag of peanuts immediately on entering. If this fails to silence the offending one, Irish confetti is supplied free at the box-office.

This week-end's schedule goes as follows: Whoopee. Train. Whoopee. Boston. Whoopee. Stadium. Lotsa Whoopee. Dance. Whoopee. Blooey. Durham. Classes and a bad taste.

The curtain goes up and we find ourselves in no other place than the neighboring hamlet of Newmark-et. What is going on? A beauty contest, Rollo. Who are among the entrants? None other than our own editor "Soapy," Rollo. Which one? The one with the curly hair, Rollo, and the avoirdupois. The time changes. It is now an hour later. The contest is over. Rollo wants to know who won. We don't know, Rollo, but the blushing young man over there with the curly hair and the avoirdupois has placed second. "Soapy," you devil!!

It just isn't safe to bet on anything nowadays. Take for instance the Kappa who bet his week's allowance that his girl wasn't in town. He put her on the train himself, and saw the train pull out. Nevertheless he lost his bet.

Turn the light on the Truth!

It's just naturally good tobacco—not "artificial treatment" that makes OLD GOLD gentle to the throat and better to the taste

No one cigarette-maker has any monopoly on the heat-treatment of cigarette tobaccos.

For heat-treating is neither new nor exclusive. It has been used for years by practically all cigarette-makers to "set" and sterilize their tobacco.

But OLD GOLD'S goodness does not depend on artificial treatment. It is the product of naturally good tobaccos . . . carefully selected for mildness, smoothness and flavor. Tobaccos made free of "throat scratch" by Mother Nature herself.

Try a package. You'll immediately get the thrill of this smoother and better cigarette. And you'll know then why OLD GOLD'S sales are ALREADY THREE TIMES GREATER than the combined growth of three leading cigarette brands during a like period of their existence.

Better Tobaccos make them smoother and better . . . with "not a cough in a carload"

Both are lines of national defense

THE Mississippi was a menacing flood. The telephone was the first line of defense, for over its wires the work against the flood was directed. Maintenance crews performed the same service as did telephone men in the signal corps in the war.

In the daily life of the nation, just as surely as in emergency, the telephone meets an ever-growing stream of demands.

To do this successfully the Bell System's expansion program embraces trans-oceanic telephony through the ether and under the sea, to ships at sea and planes in the air—and above all, wire facilities that will carry the voice, the typewritten word, the picture to every corner of the land.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The first regular meeting of Y. W. C. A. was held on Monday evening, September 30th. Carol Rudd '31 acted as leader of the worship service. Florence Gordon '31, president of Y. W. C. A. on this campus, outlined very effectively the local, state, national, and international organizations of the great Y. W. C. A. Movement. After this brief talk, games and singing were enjoyed by all. A large number of students were present, and the meeting was a very interesting and profitable one.

At the last meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet held on Friday, September 27th, plans for a retreat were discussed. It is now thought that the retreat will be held at the Highland House in about two weeks.

Obviously, few of us have the chance—or temerity—to make matadors out of ourselves. But even in the normal course of human events, there's nothing so welcome as a refreshing pause. Happily there's a soda fountain or refreshment stand—with plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola ready—around the corner from anywhere. With its delicious taste and cool after-sense of refreshment, it makes a little minute long enough for a big rest.

Season's Second Victory

Substitutes Get Into Action—Fumble Paves Way for B. U. Touchdown
—Wood and Eustis Star in N. H. Backfield

At the opening kick-off Saturday the Wildcat gridders rose up on their haunches with determination and succeeded in whipping the Boston University eleven by a 24 to 6 score in their second successive victory since the season was opened a week before.

The strong reserve force of the local team permitted Head Coach Cowell to use substitutions at every station at least once before the end of the game, while in some cases three men saw service at the same position. Yet there was no apparent weakness caused in their offensive or defensive game, which would go to show that the outfit is well reinforced. This is likely to be a factor of major importance when New Hampshire faces Harvard.

Touchdowns were scored against the Terriers by Harry Wood, John Small and Dick Eustis, two being registered by Eustis. The single touchdown chalked to the credit of the Terriers was made by Perkins, their left-halfback, who found a hole in the Wildcat line late in the first quarter. No extra points after the touchdowns were made during the game.

Eustis made the first touchdown of the game after four minutes of play. After he and Wood made gains, Eustis found little difficulty in pushing the pigskin across.

John Shea started cutting loose with forward passes in the second quarter and five were completed before a single one failed, the first incomplete pass coming in the third period. Wood took good care of the first two passes, squeezing a total of 35-yards gain out of them. They came on two consecutive plays. Hanley and Hagstrom were relieved at their end positions by Ryder and Donovan after they had performed their duties in a first class manner. Small received the third successful pass of the game from the sharp-shooting John Shea and scampered away for a 12-yard gain with the pigskin. New Hampshire soon faced a fourth down with only two yards to go for another touchdown. Another aerial bullet solved the problem when Small picked another one of Shea's spirals out of the atmosphere and easily dropped it down beyond his objective.

A feature of the third quarter was Chan Ryder's recovery of Marino's fumbled punt. Marino, the Terriers' star quarterback who upset many of the Army's offensive plays at West Point a week before, allowed the pigskin to slip through his hands, only to find Ryder picking it right off his toes. Ryder appeared to cover five yards to make the recovery before Marino could bend over to pick the ball up. This sensational play was followed by the most hair-raising forward pass of the conflict. Before making the pass, Shea was forced to retreat a number of yards to shake off two or three opponents. The pigskin was shot over 30 yards before falling into Wood's arms. Wood covered fully 10 yards to register the third touchdown.

With the vanguard of the students planning to be in Boston Friday night, the football squad of fifty-four men will leave Durham at 9 o'clock Saturday for Cambridge in two buses. They will eat at the Harvard Varsity club. After the game which starts at 3 o'clock the football men will eat supper at the Statler.

Eustis, Wood, and Wettergreen did some swift rushing. Shea shot another pass to Ryder which netted 15 yards. Nelson went in at fullback while Shea was shifted to half and later retired. Eustis made the final touchdown on another fourth down with but a foot to go, forcing his way through the Terriers' line. A number of substitutions were made. Eustis, Wood, Nelson and others continued to make gains but were held from further scoring. The visitors finally intercepted a couple of passes, but accomplished little by so doing. New Hampshire suffered several penalties from holding in the final minutes of play. The opponents were decidedly lacking in forward pass work; they attempted five but completed none.

The starting lineup consisted of Hanley, Robinson, Wright, Hawkes, Bianchi, Clapp, Hagstrom, Wood, Eustis, Gaunt, and Acting Captain Shea. Substitutes included Ryder, Grenier, Ronald, Roche, Averka, Christensen, Theodos, Abbiati, Tasker, Donovan, Wageman, Lane, Wettergreen, Nelson, J. Slack, R. Slack, Wilson, Kelly and Sterling.
